Artist Bio

Jazz/folk singer-songwriter, Lucy Mellenfield, released her debut single, Tournesols in 2019 which was described as a 'monumental debut single; one of those rare songs that makes you feel nostalgic for something you can't even recall'. Her EP, In My Short Time, received praise from Voice FM, BBC Introducing Solent, and featured on their Best of 2020 show, also making Record of the Week.

She studied a master's in jazz vocals at the Royal Birmingham Conservatoire, graduating with distinction in 2022. Here she continued to write her own music, recording two of her songs with an orchestra as well as releasing her single, Desert.

In 2022 her band made their debut at Power Folk Festival, Birmingham. She also saw her first headline show at The Spotted Dog featuring a string quartet.

In 2023 she played on the Stoney Lane Records stage at Cheltenham Jazz Festival, packed out Centrala in Birmingham, and played to a sold-out audience at Green Note in Camden. A specially commissioned project by Jazz West Midlands, Songs of the Understory, was featured in London Jazz News. This made its debut at Jazz Central Festival in Birmingham, followed by The Corn Exchange in Ross-on-Wye in September 2023.
